COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

We have had a trailer built and a hitch attached to the police car so we can transport dogs to the pound. Since the ordinance pertaining to stray dogs has been in effect there has been an improvement in the village but we are receiving complaints about strays outside the village area. We cannot keep a man on duty full-time to try and catch these animals but we do have an occasional check made in an attempt to control the situation.

It is very difficult to catch a dog after it has been sighted as not many will let a stranger close enough to them. A record will be kept of any that are continually on the streets until they can be identified, then a complaint will be issued to the owner who will have to answer to the court. We do not have to catch the dog.

It is obvious a good control program would be expensive as we have invested over $200 in equipment and extra time. We have just started to enforce the ordinance for that amount.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY HOLDS MARCH MEETING

Twenty-two members and six guests attended the postponed Bethel Historical Society meeting on March 11 and heard a most interesting talk on Maine's early canal system by guest speaker Ernest Knight, of Raymond.

Mr. Knight showed slides of the old canal boats used in transportation of goods and passengers in the first 75 years of the 19th century, and also pictures of the low path and course of the Cumberland and Oxford canal from Sebago Lake to Thompson's Point and beyond at Portland. He told of heavy cargoes of the boats going around occasionally as they travelled in three and a half feet of water at most, and the lock system an example of which still survives in the Songo Locks between Brandy Pond and Sebago.

Some of the canal boats occasionally went on coastwise trips to Boston—they usually were about 10 by 50 or 60 feet. At one time between 20 and 30 canals existed, as the most convenient and economical transportation of those times. The Androscoggin and Mill Canal existed on paper but was never built. The Canal Bank of Portland owes its beginning to the need of canal financing.

Vice President Edward Quinn presided, and the society voted to join the League of Maine Historical Societies after an explanation of the benefits was given by Elizabeth Carter.

Marguerite Quinn was elected as assistant secretary and Rosalind Chapman, assistant treasurer.

Norman Mills, membership chairman, distributed the new application forms and it is hoped that anyone interested will contact a member and secure one to apply for membership.

Discussion led to the decision that the Society will sponsor a Home Coming Week-End, Oct. 2 and 3, the first Bethel has ever had. Further plans will be made at the next meeting. The idea is to encourage every one, native or otherwise, who has ever known Bethel as their home, to return and see old friends and old familiar scenes.

Elizabeth Carter announced that the next meeting will be a "Bring Back Old Bethel" theme.

Dr. Schnitzke's Office will be closed March 15 through April 4

Now really—won't it be a change to get out with your kids for the evening? Bring the whole family, won't you?

The next meeting of the Council will be May 6.

PURITY CHAPTER TO HOLD OPEN INSTALLATION TUESDAY

Purity Chapter, No. 102, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold an open installation on Tuesday, March 23, at 8 o'clock in the Masonic Hall on Chapman Street.

Glady's Rueside, Associate Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of Maine will be installing Matron; Donald Nelder, Associate Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of Maine, installing Patron; Theresa Hilton, installing Marshal; Bernice Palmer, District Deputy, installing Chaplain; Marjorie Nelder, installing Organist; Gertrude Andrews, Star Point Ceremony; Neta Littlefield, Soloist.

The group approved the specifications for the 66-passenger bus and a ton utility pick-up as presented by the Transportation Committee.

After much discussion the policy change regarding transportation of students engaged in extra-curricular activities at Telstar and transportation of student spectators to their homes on a space available basis was given first reading approval. The effect of this change would be to provide no transportation for participants to and from the school on non-school days; and to allow student spectators to ride on participant buses to central drop-off points in the various towns if space is available on assigned vehicles.

Except for specific activities where a special decision might be made, participants in activities scheduled for dates other than normal school days, will be expected to provide their own transportation to and from the high school. Generally speaking transportation will be provided if necessary by the district from the school to the site of the activity.

Also granted initial approval was a policy addition requiring board approval of post-graduate students prior to their entrance to Telstar.

S. A. D. 44 DIRECTORS ORGANIZE FOR YEAR AT MONDAY SESSION

The board of directors of S. A. D. 44 held a regular meeting at Telstar Regional High School on Monday evening of this week. Previous to the board session the newly-elected members had an orientation meeting with Supt. Robert J. Gerardi.

Members elected for the first time this year are: Kenneth Feener, Andover; Mrs. Margaret Crosbie, Bethel; and Raymond W. Seames, Greenwood. Re-named to the board as a result of this year's town elections are Eddie Snyder, Andover; William Cousins, Bethel; Paul Wight, Newry; and Milton Mills of Woodstock. Other members of the board are: John K. Brown, Clarence Remington, Donald Stecher, Dale Thurston, of Bethel; Bernard Brooks, Harry Swan, Jr., Greenwood; Robert Davis, Newry; Robert Day, M. Parker Allen, Woodstock.

As secretary ex-officio of the board, Mr. Gerardi opened the meeting prior to the election of a chairman for the year. In secret ballot voting, John K. Brown of Bethel was named chairman by a nine to six margin over Harry Swan of Greenwood. Eddie K. Snyder of Andover had an eight to seven edge over Mr. Swan for the vice chairman's post.

In the "citizen's" segment of the meeting, Mrs. Barbara D. Brown of Bethel said she hoped that the board would consider holding future meetings scheduled for Telstar in the Lecture Hall as acoustics were more satisfactory than in the Library. In action later in the session the board decided to hold future meetings at Telstar in the Lecture Hall, and to continue the current practice of holding every fifth regularly scheduled meeting at the Andover Elementary School. Also an effort will be made to meet at each of the district's other elementary schools at least once during the year prior to budget time.

The group approved the specifications for the 66-passenger bus and a ton utility pick-up as presented by the Transportation Committee.

in the Bible collections: "Therefore of any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."
A passage to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states:
"Willingness to become as a little child and to leave the old for the new, renders thought receptive of the advanced idea. Gladness to leave the false landmarks and joy to see them disappear, — this disposition helps to precipitate the ultimate harmony. The purification of sense and will is a work of progress."

GREENWOOD CITY

Mrs. Calista Morgan, Corres.
A few days this week the weatherman promised blue Colorado skies. I agree that one day the sky was of the deepest blue but why not call it a Maine sky? Maine claimed it anyway.

On two days that the sun was shining, the air was crystal clear and the mountains were draped in silver. So I ventured out to enjoy them while they were here.

March has given us one storm after another. No sooner was the snow laid by a north wind than it took wing above a southern blast and returned upon us. Now it lies in long ridges behind every bush or tree. I found many of them as I made my way on snowshoes each of two afternoons.

My second trip was the longest and most interesting because I traveled new ground.

At first there was a breeze that skirted close to the surface and would sometimes swirl and rush ahead of me. But all that vanished as I left the pond between two beeches which stood like gate posts with a road-like entrance beyond.

For some time I followed straight in, then turned south and found my way up a hill. It was hard going among the hemlocks whose branches were fuzzy with bristling needles no longer than the nail of my little finger.

Many times I leaned against the upper side of a tree to rest, after a hard pull with my arms and looked and listened.

Over the bluff at my left flapped a crow with one single "Caw". He dipped and floated, a graceful pattern and no self-consciousness.

After reaching the top of the hill I, too, viewed the scene from the bluff. Snow and snow as far as I could see, here and there pencil markings of bare trees and bushes while in the distance were dark smudges of the evergreens against Noyes Mountain.

The roar of a chain saw high up among them, then occasionally there came a crash.

I can see them now swaying against a patch of sky, then with a sigh, going down to earth, shaking all the sunlight from their boughs. Taking a last look I turned to trudge westward.

Here I came across a dip among the hemlocks. I think all the rabbits had recently gathered there then scattered in many directions their tracks mingling with those of the squirrels.

Usually a strange mile is a longer one. Distances seem greater the first time. At this point I wasn't sure just where I was, but certainly not lost.

Advancing slowly I heard the call of a chickadee, so I answered him. In seconds there were five of them, darting from the twilight of the green thicket, and perching on the branches. Each added his "Dee-dee-dee."

I could imagine this place in the sunshine of June when stretches of the floor would be gay with flowers.

Entering an opening there were two large rocks. The rays of the sun fell on them in their white caps bringing out the texture of the granite. I rested against one and looked westward.

at an age-old maple. Twelve huge branches reached out each as big as a tree. In the center decayed and broken, stood one with many holes; the homes of flickers, no doubt.

Ahead loomed another opening where the sun streaked the gray trunks of the beeches and their dried leaves whispered among themselves.

From here I started toward the north. I heard a woodpecker. He shot past appearing and disappearing abruptly. Again I heard its call and wondered if it was on the old maple I so recently passed.

Going toward lower ground now I came upon a curve of a stream, like a half moon and its gurgles coming through the intense silence.

In a short time I pulled up beside a dark little pool. On the far side stood a gray beech covered with leaden stalks of its branches and top were missing but it guarded a moss covered rock beneath.

The solitariness and loneliness impressed my mind and linked the scene with other memories.

Overhead, fleecy clouds drifted in the sunshine and a slender white birch nodded a greeting.

Farther on was another pool with an arch of green above it. A small hemlock covered with snow was reaching for the water beneath; while in the center of the pool was Small Moss Island.

At this section stood four birch bark vases. The bark was firm and crisp, about a foot high, but the wood from within was entirely rotted away. I pushed a stick inside and cleared the snow away. I then pictured them in this same setting filled with a cascade of buttercups.

The sun was still high but the day was advancing so I headed east toward home.

The air was sparkling and each mountain tip clear cut against the sky. The snow was clean and white, not really white either but with a cast of blue.

I followed close to where the shoreline hugged the pond then crossed toward home amid the shadows of drifting clouds sliding toward me then moving deliberately on.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt and son, Bangor, were week end visitors of Mrs. Leonas Holt and family. Rena Bacon, West Paris, was a caller on Saturday and Donna Morgan, Bryant Pond on Sunday.

Mrs. Roland Hayes and her niece, Marcia Johnson, and sister, Verna Libby, of Portland went to New York on Monday and returned on Wednesday. They attended the concert in which Miss Diane Hayes took part. Diane is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hayes and attends Heidelberg College in Tiffin, Ohio, where she is studying voice and majoring in music education.

Mrs. Leonas Holt is some better at this writing. She has been ill all this week. The thoughtfulness of her neighbors who have sent in food I'm sure she has appreciated.

Mrs. Clyde Morgan attended the meeting for retired teachers with Ruth Hastings in Mexico on Saturday.

Katherine Hakala and Jenn Millett accompanied Miss Colby's third grade to Goodwin's Dairy Bar at Norway on Thursday.

Mrs. Katherine Hakala, Judith and Karen, Mrs. Jenn Millett, Brenda and Sherry, attended the mother and daughter banquet for the Brownie Scouts on Friday and World Day at Norway on Saturday.

MAGALLOWAY

— Mrs. Bessie Harvey, Corres. —

Mrs. Linda Stanley and her small daughter of Portland are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hinkley of Magalloway.

My grandson Frederick Abbott with Linda and Loretta of Grovelton, spent Sunday with me. He chopped ice and shoveled snow most of the day.

Lauren Bennett's Pay Loader ploughed yards after the last snowfall and the banks beside the main road and driveways were more than ten feet high. In all my almost eighty-one years, I never experienced a winter like this one.

My daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Harvey and her husband, Raymond, are in Mexico. They reside in Tucson, Arizona.

Magalloway voted to discontinue using the Wentworth Location dump as it is too hard keeping it open in winter.

Mrs. Helen Hart has not been well lately.

Mrs. Grace Turner visited in Milan and Berlin, two days last week. Mark Harvey broke the road out to Middle Dam again last week with his bulldozer.

People are beginning to worry about floods now.
